The 90-Day Plan to Get Window Cleaning Customers

For: A solo/small window cleaner who needs customers tomorrow, next week, and over the next 3 months.

The big idea: You don't need a fancy website or a big budget. You need to talk to people on the streets near you, every day, get a few happy customers, and turn them into a recurring round that pays you the same money over and over. That's the whole game.

Struggling to find customers? Read this first. Almost every window cleaner who "can't find customers" has the same problem: they're waiting for customers to come to them (a Facebook page, a website, an ad) instead of going to get them (knocking doors on the street, today). The fastest, cheapest, most reliable way to fill a window cleaning round is door-knocking the streets near where you already are. Everything else in this plan supports that. Don't skip it.

Quick navigation

- Part A — Everything about the window cleaning business
- Part B — TOMORROW (Day 1)
- Part C — NEXT WEEK (Days 2–7)
- Part D — THE 90 DAYS (month by month)
- Part E — Tools, tracking & money
- Copy-paste scripts & templates are in the `templates/` folder.
- One-page "start tomorrow" checklist: `QUICK-START-this-week.md`

Part A — Everything about the window cleaning business

A1. How the money actually works

There are two kinds of window cleaning work, and the difference is everything:

|                 | One-off cleans                           | Recurring "round" work ★                         |
|-----------------|------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|
| What it is      | Someone wants their windows done once    | Same customer, every 4–8 weeks, forever          |
| Income          | Unpredictable, always chasing new people | Predictable, builds up, pays you again and again |
| Effort to get   | High (constant marketing)                | Get them once , keep them for years       |
| The goal | Avoid relying on these                   | This is the real business                 |

The recurring round is the prize. A round is just a list of regular customers grouped by street/area, cleaned on a repeating cycle (commonly every 4 weeks in the UK, or monthly / bi-monthly elsewhere). Once a customer is on your round, you turn up, clean, get paid, and come back next cycle — no marketing needed. Build a round of 150–250 houses and you have a full-time income that's the same every month.

Why density matters: if 8 houses on one street are all yours, you park once and earn for an hour without driving. If your customers are scattered across town, you burn the day driving. So the rule is: always try to sell the houses next to a customer you already have.

Rough price ranges (set your own using Part A3)

These are ballpark figures to orient you — your local market sets the real numbers, so ask around / check what local cleaners charge.

- Typical UK terrace/semi house: ~£10–£20 per clean (exterior, every 4 weeks)
- Larger detached house: ~£20–£40+
- US/Canada/AUS residential: often priced higher and less frequently (e.g. $100–$300+ for a full interior+exterior, a few times a year) — the "every-4-weeks round" model is strongest in the UK; elsewhere you'll lean more on quarterly/seasonal cleans plus commercial.
- Commercial storefront: small per-visit price (e.g. £5–£15 / $10–$30) but done weekly or fortnightly and clustered on one street = great steady money.
- First clean costs more: the first time is always dirtier and slower — charge a first-clean premium (e.g. 1.5×–2× the regular price), then the recurring price after.

A2. Equipment — start cheap, upgrade later

You do not need to spend thousands to start. Two methods:

1. Traditional method (cheapest to start — get going this week):

- Squeegee (a good one, e.g. 10"/12") + spare rubbers
- T-bar / applicator (washer) + a microfibre or scrim cloth for edges
- Bucket + window cleaning soap (a few drops of washing-up liquid works to start)
- Ladder (for upstairs) + ladder standoff/stay
- Detailing cloths/scrim for drips and frames
- A few microfibre cloths, a scraper for paint/muck
- 👉 You can start traditional for roughly £50–£150 / $70–$200.

2. Water-fed pole (WFP) system (upgrade — buy when you have income):

- A telescopic pole + brush + purified (de-ionised) water lets you clean upstairs windows from the ground (safer, faster, no ladders).
- Needs purified water (DI resin vessel or RO filter) + a tank/backpack.
- Costs more upfront (a starter backpack setup can be a few hundred; a tank/van system more) but it's faster, safer, and lets you clean high windows — most cleaners move to WFP once the round is paying.
- 🖐️ Start traditional, reinvest your first weeks' earnings into a WFP setup.

Also (don't skip):

- Public liability insurance — protects you if you damage a window or property. Often cheap for a sole trader and frequently required before commercial clients will hire you. ✅ Check your local requirements (rules differ by country) and get covered before you start charging.
- Register as self-employed / sole trader for tax as your country requires (e.g. HMRC in the UK; report self-employment income wherever you are). Keep it simple, just keep records (Part E).

A3. Pricing — a simple way to never under-charge

Don't agonise. Use a floor + a size adjustment:

1. Set a minimum charge. No job is worth doing for less than this (e.g. £10 / $40). Even a tiny flat, you don't go below the minimum — it's not worth stopping the van.
2. Price by size / number of windows. More/bigger windows = more money. A quick rule many cleaners use:
  - Small (terrace/townhouse, few windows): minimum charge
  - Medium (semi/3-bed): minimum + ~50%
  - Large (detached/4-bed+): roughly 2× the minimum, more for big or awkward properties
3. Add for extras: conservatory roof, frames + sills (often included in first clean, then mention "frames and sills done"), Velux/skylights, hard-to-reach, lots of glass.
4. First clean premium: 1.5×–2× regular price (it's always the dirtiest, slowest one).
5. Commercial: price per visit based on time + frequency. A shopfront done weekly is small per visit but adds up and is super efficient if it's near other work.

Golden rule: price so you'd be happy to do that job all day. If you're booked solid, your prices are too low — raise them on new customers. (Quote template is in templates/pricing-and-quote-sheet.md.)

A4. Where customers come from (ranked by SPEED to first customer)

Do them roughly in this order:

1. People you already know ⚡ (customers today) — friends, family, neighbours, ex-colleagues. A personal message + one social post gets your first job fastest.

2. Door-knocking the streets near you ⚡⚡ (customers today/this week) — the single most effective method. See templates/door-knock-script.md.
3. Free local listings — Google Business Profile (huge — see templates/google-business-profile-setup.md), plus free local directories.
4. Reviews & referrals — every happy customer is a source of 2–3 more. Always ask. See templates/review-request-message.md.
5. Local Facebook groups & Nextdoor (free, fast) — community "recommend a window cleaner" posts. See templates/facebook-and-nextdoor-posts.md.
6. Flyers / door hangers / business cards (cheap) — especially the "Sorry I missed you" hanger when no one answers the door. See templates/flyer-text.md.
7. Paid ads (Facebook/Google Local) (only when budget allows) — useful later; don't rely on it early.
8. Leaflet drops at scale — good for filling gaps in streets you already work.

💡 The cheap/free top of this list (1, 2, 4, 5) is where you'll get almost all of your first 90 days of customers. Paid stuff is optional.

A5. Keeping customers (this is where the business is actually won)

Getting a customer is hard; keeping one is easy if you do these:

- Turn up reliably and on schedule. The #1 complaint about window cleaners is "mine stopped showing up." Just being reliable beats most competitors.
- Clean to a consistent standard — no streaks, do the frames/sills, leave it tidy.
- Tell them you've been: a quick text "Hi, cleaned your windows today, £X, thanks!" with payment details. Makes paying easy and reminds them you're dependable.
- Cluster your round (density) so you can offer a good price and never miss a clean.
- Ask for reviews and referrals at the happy moment (right after a great clean).
- Make it easy to pay — cash, bank transfer, or a simple card/app link. The easier to pay, the faster you get paid and the longer they stay.

---

Part B — TOMORROW (Day 1): get your first leads in 24 hours

---

Today's goal: 5–10 real conversations and 1–3 booked quotes or cleans. You can absolutely book your first job tomorrow. Here's the hour-by-hour:

☀️ Morning (1–2 hours) — the "warm" leads

1. Post once on your personal social media (Facebook/Instagram). Use the post in templates/facebook-and-nextdoor-posts.md. "I'm running a window cleaning business — first 5 local people who book this week get [their first clean at a discount / frames done free]. Know anyone? Please share!"

2. Send 10 direct messages/texts to people you know locally (template in the same file). Friends, family, neighbours. Ask them and ask them to pass your name on.
3. Set up your free Google Business Profile ( templates/google-business-profile-setup.md ). It can take a few days to verify, so start it today — it works for you 24/7 once live.

Midday/Afternoon (2–3 hours) — door-knocking (your money-maker)

4. Pick 2–3 streets near your home (or near anyone who's already said yes). Knock every door with the script in templates/door-knock-script.md .
5. Where no one answers, leave a "Sorry I missed you" door hanger/card (text in templates/flyer-text.md ) with your number. A surprising number call back.
6. Write down every "yes" and "maybe" with the address and price you quoted (use the tracker in Part E). Book a clean time on the spot if you can.

Evening (30 mins) — community groups

7. Post in 2–3 local Facebook groups / Nextdoor ("[Town] Community", "[Town] Recommendations", local village/estate groups). Use the community post in templates/facebook-and-nextdoor-posts.md . Reply to anyone asking for a window cleaner.

✅ End of Day 1 you should have: several conversations, 1–3 jobs booked or quoted, your Google listing started, and a list of doors to revisit. That's a real start.

Part C — NEXT WEEK (Days 2–7): build momentum

---

Week 1 goal: 10–20 quotes given, 5–10 paying customers, your first reviews live.

Do a version of Day 1 every day, plus build the foundations:

Every day this week

- Knock doors for 2+ hours, focusing on streets near any job you've booked (density!). Every booked job → knock the 10 houses either side and across the road: "Hi, I'm just starting to clean a few windows on this street — would you like yours done too?" People say yes far more when neighbours are already customers.
- Do the jobs you booked, do them brilliantly, and text the customer after ("cleaned today, £X, thank you — see you in 4 weeks").
- Ask every happy customer two things: (1) a quick online review, (2) "do you know anyone else who'd like theirs done?" Offer a small referral reward (e.g. their next clean half price for a referral that signs up). Script in templates/review-request-message.md .

One-time setup tasks this week

- Finish your Google Business Profile and add before/after photos of your first jobs.
- Create a simple free Facebook business Page (name, area, phone, photos) so you look legit.
- Order cheap business cards + flyers (online print shops are very cheap) and design a "Sorry I missed you" door hanger — these turn no-answer doors into callbacks. Wording in templates/flyer-text.md.
- Open the simplest possible way to get paid (bank transfer details ready to text; consider a free card/payment app).

✓ End of Week 1 you should have: your first handful of recurring customers, a couple of reviews, photos, and a daily knocking habit forming. Momentum is everything now — keep knocking.

Part D — THE 90 DAYS (month by month)

Three months, three jobs: (1) get your first customers, (2) build density & referrals, (3) turn it into a repeatable round. Numbers below are realistic targets for a solo cleaner working at it consistently — adjust to your hours and area.

Month 1 — Foundation & first customers

Goal: Build the daily habit, get listed everywhere free, land your first 10–20 recurring customers and 5+ reviews, and settle on your pricing.

Weekly actions:

- ☐ Knock doors at least 3–5 days/week, always near existing customers.
- ☐ Do every job to a high standard; text-after every clean.
- ☐ Ask for a review + referral after every happy job.
- ☐ Add each new customer to your round tracker with their next-clean date (Part E).
- ☐ Finish/optimize Google Business Profile; post before/after photos.
- ☐ Post weekly in local Facebook groups / Nextdoor.

Month-1 targets:

| Metric                     | Target                                 |
|----------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| Quotes given               | 40–80                                  |
| Recurring customers signed | 10–20                                  |
| Reviews live               | 5+                                     |
| First-clean income         | Reinvest some into WFP/insurance/cards |

Month 2 — Density & referrals

Goal: Make every new customer near an existing one, switch on referrals, and start a few commercial leads. Target 40–60 recurring customers.

Weekly actions:

- ☐ Focus all canvassing on streets you already serve — fill them out (aim for clusters of 5–10 houses per street).
- ☐ Launch a referral scheme ("£5 off / free clean for every neighbour who signs up") — tell every customer.
- ☐ Leaflet-drop the streets you're cleaning that day ("I'm cleaning windows on your street today — want to join the round?").
- ☐ Walk into 3–5 local shops/café/offices and offer a regular storefront clean (commercial = steady money; clustering them on one street/parade is ideal). Use the commercial bit of templates/door-knock-script.md.
- ☐ If budget allows, trial a small local Facebook/Google ad (£20–£50 / $30–$60) targeting your town.
- ☐ Keep collecting reviews — aim for a steady trickle.

Month-2 targets:

| Metric                           | Target         |
|----------------------------------|----------------|
| Recurring customers (total)      | 40–60          |
| Avg. customers per active street | 5+             |
| Commercial leads started         | 2–5            |
| Referrals received               | A handful/week |

Month 3 — Systemise & scale

Goal: Turn your customers into a smooth repeating round with steady weekly income, and decide how to grow. Target a near-full round for your hours.

Weekly actions:

- ☐ Organise customers into a 4-weekly (or monthly) cycle by area so each working day is one zone — minimal driving.
- ☐ Send reminder texts the day before / morning of each clean (reduces locked gates & no-access).
- ☐ Raise your prices on new customers if you're consistently fully booked (you probably are if this is working).
- ☐ Pitch a few proper commercial contracts (offices, estate agents, small chains) for weekly/fortnightly work.
- ☐ Decide your next investment: water-fed pole system, a second person/helper, or van signage.

- ☐ Review your numbers (below) and double down on what's bringing customers cheapest.

Month-3 targets:

| Metric           | Target                                                               |
|------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Recurring round  | Near-full for your hours (often 80–150+ houses solo, area-dependent) |
| Income           | Steady, predictable weekly revenue                                   |
| Schedule         | Organised into repeating zones                                       |
| Next step chosen | WFP / helper / commercial contracts                                  |

What to track every week (all 3 months)

Keep these five numbers — they tell you exactly what's working:

1. Quotes/conversations given
2. Conversion % (customers ÷ quotes)
3. New recurring customers
4. Reviews collected
5. Weekly revenue

If conversion is low → improve your door pitch/price. If quotes are low → knock more doors. Simple.

Part E — Tools, tracking & money

E1. Your round tracker (don't skip — this is your business asset)

A window cleaning round is literally a list of customers and when they're due. Keep it in a free spreadsheet (Google Sheets) or a cheap window-cleaner app. Minimum columns:

| Column       | Example                                   |
|--------------|-------------------------------------------|
| Name         | Jane Smith                                |
| Address      | 12 Oak Street                             |
| Phone        | 07...                                     |
| Price        | £15                                       |
| Frequency    | Every 4 weeks                             |
| Last cleaned | 2026-06-28                                |
| Next due     | 2026-07-26                                |
| Notes        | Side gate code 1234, dog, pay by transfer |
| Paid?        | ✅ / owes £15                              |

Sort by street/area and next-due date so each working day = one zone with no missed cleans. As the round grows, a dedicated window-cleaning app (several cheap ones exist) can automate scheduling, reminder texts, and payments — but a spreadsheet is fine to start.

E2. Money & admin (keep it simple)

- Get paid easily: have bank transfer details ready to text; cash is fine; a free card-reader/payment-app helps. Easier payment = you get paid faster and keep customers longer.
- Records for tax: note every payment in and every expense (equipment, fuel, insurance, cards). A single spreadsheet tab is enough to start. Report self-employment income as your country requires.
- Insurance: get public liability before charging — cheap, and many customers (especially commercial) require it. ✅ Check your local rules.
- Register as self-employed/sole trader per your country's rules.

E3. The one habit that beats everything

Knock doors every working day, near your existing customers, and turn up reliably. Do that for 90 days and you'll have a round. Everything else in this plan just makes that easier.

👉 Start here tomorrow morning: QUICK-START-this-week.md

Want this tailored to your exact town, currency, residential-vs-commercial focus, or budget? Tell me and I'll update the numbers, channels, and scripts.

Quick Start — Get Your First Customers This Week

One page. Print it. Do it. This is the short version of the full plan ( WINDOW-CLEANING-90-DAY-PLAN.md ). The copy-paste scripts are in the templates/ folder.

The one thing that matters most: Stop waiting for customers to find you. Go knock on doors near where you live, today. That's how window cleaning rounds get filled. Everything else is a bonus.

✓ TOMORROW (Day 1) — aim for 1–3 booked jobs

Morning (1 hr):

- ☐ Post once on your personal Facebook/Instagram → "Starting my window cleaning business — first 5 local bookings this week get a discount. Know anyone? Please share!" (wording: templates/facebook-and-nextdoor-posts.md )
- ☐ Text 10 people you know locally — ask them and ask them to pass your name on.
- ☐ Start your free Google Business Profile (takes a few days to verify, so start now): templates/google-business-profile-setup.md

Afternoon (2–3 hrs) — the money-maker:

- ☐ Pick 2–3 streets near you and knock every door using the script: templates/door-knock-script.md
- ☐ No answer? Leave a "Sorry I missed you" card with your number: templates/flyer-text.md
- ☐ Write down every yes/maybe (address + price) in your tracker.

Evening (30 min):

- ☐ Post in 2–3 local Facebook groups / Nextdoor ("[Town] Community / Recommendations"): templates/facebook-and-nextdoor-posts.md

✓ THIS WEEK (Days 2–7) — aim for 5–10 paying customers

Every day:

- ☐ Knock doors 2+ hours, focusing on streets next to a job you've already booked (neighbours say yes more).
- ☐ Do your booked jobs brilliantly; text the customer after: "Cleaned your windows today, £X, thanks — see you in 4 weeks!"

- ☐ After every happy job, ask for a review + a referral (offer a small reward): templates/review-request-message.md

Once this week:

- ☐ Finish Google Profile + add before/after photos.
- ☐ Make a simple free Facebook business Page.
- ☐ Order cheap business cards + flyers + door hangers: templates/flyer-text.md
- ☐ Sort out an easy way to get paid (bank transfer/cash/app).
- ☐ Sort your pricing and start a customer/round tracker: templates/pricing-and-quote-sheet.md

Targets

| When           | Conversations / quotes | Customers       |
|----------------|------------------------|-----------------|
| Day 1          | 5–10                   | 1–3 booked      |
| End of Week 1  | 10–20                  | 5–10 paying     |
| End of Month 1 | 40–80                  | 10–20 recurring |

Remember

1. Door-knocking near existing customers is your #1 tool. Do it daily.
  2. Recurring customers (cleaned every 4 weeks) are the goal — not one-offs.
  3. Be reliable. Just turning up every time beats most of your competition.
  4. Always ask for reviews and referrals at the happy moment.

Door-Knocking Script (your #1 customer-getter)

Door-knocking ("canvassing") is the fastest, cheapest, most reliable way to fill a window cleaning round. Most people are friendly. You'll get plenty of "no thanks" — that's normal, just move to the next door. A few yeses a day = a full round in a few months.

Mindset before you start

- It's a numbers game. Knock ~30–50 doors and you'll typically pick up a few customers. Every "no" gets you closer to a "yes."
- Smile, be brief, be normal. You're offering a useful local service, not begging.
- Knock streets near where you live or near a customer you already have (density = less driving, easier yeses).
- Best times: late afternoon / early evening and weekends, when people are home. Avoid meal times.
- Wear something tidy with your business name if you have it. Carry cards.

The basic script (residential)

"Hi there! I'm [Name], I'm a local window cleaner just starting to take on a few houses on this street. Would you be interested in having your windows cleaned regularly?"

Then pause and let them answer. That's it. Keep it short and friendly.

If they say "How much?"

"For a house like yours it'd be about £[X], and I'd come back every 4 weeks to keep them looking great. The first clean's a little more as it's always the dirtiest one, then it's £[X] each time after."

If they say "Yes / maybe":

"Brilliant! Can I grab your name and number, and I'll [do it now / pop back on date]? Here's my card." → Write the address, name, number, and price in your tracker immediately.

If they say "No thanks":

"No problem at all — here's my card in case you ever change your mind. Have a great day!" → Smile, leave a card, move on. Don't take it personally.

Handling the common objections

"I already have a window cleaner."

"Ah, no worries! If they ever let you down or stop showing up, give me a call — I'm reliable and I'm local. Here's my card." (Lots of cleaners quietly disappear — you'll get these customers later.)

"I do them myself."

"Fair enough! A lot of my customers used to as well — it's just nice not to climb ladders. Keep my card in case you fancy handing it over one day. Cheers!"

"Not right now / I'll think about it."

"Of course. Here's my card — and if it helps, I'm doing a few of your neighbours on [day], so I'll be on the street anyway. Just text me if you'd like to join."

"How do I know you'll keep coming?"

"Great question — that's actually my whole thing. I clean [this street/area] on a 4-weekly round, I text you each time I've been, and you can stop any time. I'm building a regular round right here, so you'll see me about."

"Can you do the inside too / conservatory / gutters?"

"Yes — exterior is the regular every-4-weeks clean; insides/conservatory/extra bits I can quote separately. Want me to take a look?"

Commercial version (shops, cafés, offices — great for Month 2+)

Walk in, ask for the manager/owner, and keep it quick:

"Hi, I'm [Name], a local window cleaner. I look after a few businesses nearby and I'm offering regular shopfront cleans — weekly or fortnightly — to keep your windows spotless for customers. Could I give you a quick price?"

- Emphasise regular (weekly/fortnightly) and clustered — "I'm already doing [shop down the road]."
- Mention you're insured (have public liability ready — many businesses require it).
- Leave a card and a one-line price. Follow up in a week.

After a "yes" — lock it in

1. Save the customer in your round tracker (name, address, phone, price, next date).
2. Knock the houses either side and opposite — "I'm just signing up [neighbour] at number X, would you like yours done too?" This is the easiest yes you'll get.
3. Do a great first clean, text them after, and ask for a review + referral.

The compounding trick: every new customer is a reason to knock their neighbours. Work the street, not the town.

Flyers, Business Cards & Door Hangers (copy-paste wording)

Cheap to print online. The "Sorry I missed you" door hanger is the most valuable one — it turns every no-answer door into a possible callback. Replace the [brackets] with your details before printing.

Printing & using them — quick tips

- Online print shops (e.g. Vistaprint and similar) print cards/flyers very cheaply — you don't need many to start.
- Put your phone number BIG — it's the only thing that matters on the page.
- Door hangers > letterbox flyers for no-answer houses (they don't get lost in the post).
- Keep cards on you always — hand one to every person you talk to.
- A simple logo isn't essential to start; clear text + a phone number beats a fancy design with no number.
- Add a small discount/offer ("10% off first clean") — it gives people a reason to call now.

Facebook, Nextdoor & Text Messages (copy-paste)

Free, fast, and where a lot of local people look for a window cleaner. Replace [brackets] before posting. Post in local community groups, not just your own page — that's where new customers are.

1. Your personal profile post (Day 1 — do this first)

 Big news — I've started my own window cleaning business, [BUSINESS NAME]! 🎉

2. Local community group / Nextdoor post

(Check each group's rules — some have a specific day for promoting local businesses.)

Hi everyone! 🙋 I'm [Name], a local window cleaner based in [TOWN]. I'm building up a regular round in the area and have a few spaces left.
✓ Houses cleaned every 4 weeks (frames & sills included) ✓ Shopfronts & one-off cleans too ✓
Fully insured, friendly and reliable ✓ Free quotes — from £[X]

---

4. Text / DM to people you know (send 10 on Day 1)

And if you know anyone local who might want them done, could you pass my number on? Really appreciate it — [Phone]. Thanks! 🙏

5. The "after the clean" text (keeps customers & prompts payment)

Hi [Name], just cleaned your windows today — all done! 🧼✨ That's £[X], payable by [bank transfer to ... / cash / link]. I'll be back around [next date]. Thanks so much, [Your Name].

(Tip: add at the end of a great clean →)

Posting tips

- Join every local group you can: "[Town] Community", "[Town] Recommendations", "[Town] Buy/Sell", village/estate groups, "[Town] Small Businesses".
- Post photos — a crisp before/after of a real job gets far more attention than text alone.
- Reply fast to anyone asking for a cleaner. Speed wins these.
- Don't spam — one good post per group, then engage genuinely. Re-post every couple of weeks if rules allow.
- Always answer publicly first ("Sent you a message!") so the whole group sees you're active and responsive.

Google Business Profile — Get Found on Google & Maps (free)

When someone searches "window cleaner near me", Google shows a map with local businesses. A Google Business Profile (free) is how you appear there. It's one of the best free customer sources — set it up Day 1 because verification can take a few days.

Why it matters

- It's free and puts you on Google Search + Google Maps.
- Customers can find your phone number, see your reviews, and call you directly.
- Reviews here are gold — they're the first thing people check. Every happy customer = ask for a Google review.

Step-by-step setup

1. Go to google.com/business (or search "Google Business Profile") and sign in with a Google account (make a free one if needed).
2. Enter your business name (e.g. "[Your Name] Window Cleaning") and choose the category "Window cleaning service".
3. Service-area business: since you go to customers, choose "I deliver goods and services to my customers" and hide your home address — instead set your service areas (your town + nearby areas/postcodes). You don't need a shopfront.
4. Add your phone number and (optionally) a website — a free Facebook Page link works if you don't have a site.
5. Set your service areas to every town/area you'll cover.
6. Verify — Google confirms you're real (usually by postcard, phone, email, or video; method varies). Do this promptly — your profile won't show publicly until verified, and the postcard option can take several days.
7. While waiting, fill everything in: hours, services offered (residential, commercial, conservatory, one-off), a short description, and your service areas.

After it's live — make it work

- Add photos: your van, you working, and before/after shots of real jobs. Profiles with photos get far more clicks. Add new ones regularly.
- Write a short description, e.g.:

"[Business Name] provides reliable, friendly window cleaning for homes and businesses across [Town] and surrounding areas. Regular 4-weekly cleans, frames and sills included, fully insured. Free quotes — call [phone]."

- Turn on messaging so people can contact you easily.
- Get reviews relentlessly: after every happy clean, send your review link (your profile gives you a short link to share). Aim for a steady stream — the more recent reviews, the higher you rank.
- Reply to every review (a quick "Thanks [Name], see you next time!"). It looks great and helps ranking.
- Post updates occasionally (offers, "taking on new customers in [area]") — these show on your profile.

Also worth doing (free local listings)

- Bing Places (same idea as Google, takes 5 minutes).
- Free local directories / trade-recommendation sites popular in your country.
- Your Facebook business Page (links nicely from here).

💡 Don't wait for Google to bring customers before you knock doors — it builds slowly over weeks. Treat it as a long-term tap that's filling in the background while door-knocking gets you customers today.

Pricing & Quoting (simple system + templates)

Don't overthink pricing. Use a minimum charge + size adjustment, add a first-clean premium, and price so you'd happily do that job all day. Replace [brackets] with your own numbers for your area.

Step 1 — Set your minimum charge

The lowest you'll do any job for (covers stopping the van and your time).

- Example UK: £10. US/Canada/AUS one-off cleans are usually much higher.
- Never go below it, even for a tiny flat.

Step 2 — Price by size

More/bigger windows = more money. A simple ladder:

| Property                               | Rough price (set your own) |
|----------------------------------------|----------------------------|
| Small — terrace/townhouse, few windows | Minimum charge             |
| Medium — semi / 3-bed                  | Minimum + ~50%             |
| Large — detached / 4-bed+              | ~2× minimum                |
| Very large / lots of glass / awkward   | 2×+ minimum, judge it      |

Quick method: count the windows, or just look at the house and compare it to ones you've already priced. You'll get fast at eyeballing it within a week.

Step 3 — Add for extras

- Conservatory / sunroom — add to the price (roof = more).
- Frames & sills — usually included on the first clean; after that mention "frames and sills wiped" as part of the service.
- Velux / skylights, awkward access, very high — add for difficulty.
- Interior windows — separate price from the regular exterior round.

Step 4 — First-clean premium

The first clean is always the dirtiest and slowest. Charge 1.5×–2× the regular price for it, then the normal price every cycle after. Always tell the customer up front so there's no surprise.

Step 5 — Frequency

Recurring beats one-off every time. Offer:

- Every 4 weeks (most popular, best for you) — your standard.
- Every 8 weeks — fine, slightly higher per clean (dirtier).
- One-off — charge the first-clean premium price (no repeat income, so make it worth it).

Commercial pricing

- Price per visit based on time + frequency (weekly/fortnightly).
- Small per-visit price is fine if it's regular and clustered near other work.
- Factor in: number/size of panes, ground-floor vs high, how often.
- Mention you're insured — often required.

✅ The golden rule

If you're fully booked, your prices are too low. Keep your existing customers' prices and quote new customers a bit higher until your bookings ease off. Raising prices on new work (not existing customers) is the cleanest way to earn more without upsetting anyone.

Quote reply template (text/message)

Hi [Name], thanks for your enquiry! 😊 For [their property/address], window cleaning would be: • First clean: £[X] (it's always the dirtiest one) • Then £[Y] every 4 weeks — frames & sills included I'm fully insured and I'll text you each time I've been so it's easy to pay. Would you like me to book you in? 📅🌟 — [Your Name], [Business Name], [Phone]

On-the-doorstep quote (say it out loud)

"For a house like yours it'd be £[Y] every 4 weeks, and the first clean is £[X] as it's the dirtiest. Frames and sills included, and I'll text you each time I've been. Shall I get you booked in?"

Simple price list to keep in your pocket

[BUSINESS NAME] — guide prices
 Minimum charge ..... £[10]
 Terrace / townhouse ..... £[X]
 Semi / 3-bed ..... £[X]
 Detached / 4-bed+ ..... £[X]

★ Asking for Reviews & Referrals (your free growth engine)

Every happy customer can bring you 2–3 more through reviews and referrals — for free. The secret is simple: always ask, and ask at the happy moment (right after a great clean, when they're pleased). Most people are glad to help; they just need to be asked.

When to ask

- Right after a great first clean — they're seeing sparkling windows, this is the peak moment.
- In your "I've cleaned today" text (easy, no pressure).
- After they say something nice ("Oh that looks great!") → "Thank you! Would you mind leaving me a quick review? It really helps."

1. Asking for a Google review (text/message)

Hi [Name], thanks so much for having me clean your windows today! 😊 If you were happy with the job, would you mind leaving me a quick Google review? I'm a small local business and it genuinely makes a huge difference. Here's the link — takes 30 seconds: [your review link] 🙏
Thank you!

In person:

"Really glad you're happy with it! If you get a sec, a quick Google review would honestly mean a lot to a small business like mine — I can text you the link."

2. Asking for referrals (with a reward)

By the way [Name] — if any of your neighbours or friends would like their windows done too, please send them my way! I'll give you [£5 off your next clean / a free clean] for anyone who signs up. 😊 Thanks so much!

Why a reward works: it gives the customer a reason to actually mention you, and neighbours are the easiest, cheapest customers you'll ever get (less driving, easy "yes").

3. The neighbour knock (referral in action)

After signing someone up, knock next door:

"Hi! I've just started cleaning [neighbour]'s windows at number [X] on a regular round — would you like yours done too while I'm on the street?"

People say yes far more when they know a neighbour already uses you.

4. Follow-up if they forget the review

A gentle one-time nudge a few days later:

Hi [Name], hope your windows are still looking great! ✨ No worries if you're busy, but if you did have a moment for that quick Google review I'd really appreciate it — here's the link again: [link]. Thanks so much! 🙏

How to get your Google review link

Once your Google Business Profile is verified, it gives you a short "Ask for reviews" link you can copy and text/email to customers. Save it in your phone so it's one tap to send. (Setup: google-business-profile-setup.md.)

---

Make it a habit (this is the whole trick)

- Every. Single. Happy. Customer. Ask for a review and mention the referral reward.
- Keep your review link saved for instant sending.
- Reply to every review you get ("Thanks [Name], see you next clean!").
- Reviews compound: more reviews → higher on Google → more customers → more reviews. Start now, even with one customer.
